

Samantha Fletcher: Workshops

Voices in Harmony Join Samantha for a two-part, hands-on singing workshop created especially for ukulele festival attendees who want to deepen their connection to their voices and experience the richness of singing together. All levels of experience are warmly welcomed.

In these morning and afternoon sessions, we'll explore how the voice comes alive through the body - supported by breath, shaped by resonance, and guided by grounded, attentive movement. As we work, techniques that help support the development of vocal range, tuning, blend, tone, and rhythmic feel will unfold through practical exploration. Newer singers will find clear, accessible ways into each skill, while more experienced singers will have room to refine, stretch, and deepen their vocal awareness and ensemble sensitivity.

The songs we learn will be accessible and engaging, chosen to feel natural when paired with ukulele outside the workshop (though no instruments will be used during the sessions). The hope is that participants will enjoy taking the songs with them and integrating them into their repertoire after the festival is complete. Throughout the day, we'll move between learning repertoire and developing technique, building harmonies as a full ensemble and also trying out duos, trios, and other small-group combinations.

Expect a supportive, energizing space where beginners can take their first steps with ease and experienced singers can stretch into new challenges - all while making music together in community.
